CHRISTMAS
"Have a Merry..."
This special Yuletide message is a joint appeal for safer, sober driving from Mississippi Safety Council President John C. Underwood and Public Safety Commissioner Tom Scarborough, comes on the eve of what is perhaps the most hazardous period of the year—the Christmas holidays.

Christmas, which should be an occasion of deepest spiritual significance, annually becomes a time of tragedy for hundreds of Mississippi families.

During an extremely long Christmas season last year, traffic accidents injured 161 motorists and killed 12. There were 323 separate accidents reported by the Highway Patrol.

Such a large number of accidental deaths can be attributed to several possible causes, according to Scarborough and Underwood. Not the least of these is driving while intoxicated.

The Mississippi Safety Council and the Department of Public Safety this year has inaugurated a stepped-up campaign against holiday drinking and driving.

The Christmas office party where intoxicating drinks are served is blamed for many accidents which occur to the participants later. A council survey shows that a drinking driver was involved in approximately 55 percent of the Christmas holiday accidents last year.

"The bottle and the throttle do not mix," Underwood and Scarborough said.

Other contributing factors to the alarming Christmas death toll are speed, abnormal traffic congestion and the spirit of hilarity which goes with Christmas. All combined with demon "Social Drink" to create untold driving hazards.

For instance the Safety Council points out that bright, gay Christmas street decorations often tend to distract the attention of drivers and shoppers alike. Statistics show more pedestrian accidents occur on Christmas Eve than at any time of the year.

Recognizing these hazards and taking appropriate defensive driving action is the first step toward curbing Christmas accidents.

The two safety officials said the state can finish 1959 with a reduced traffic death rate. A possible reduction hinges, however on Mississippi's driving record over the Christmas and New Year's holiday.

STATE SET PACE IN PRODUCTION OF CATTLE DURING PAST 10 YEARS

Mississippi has set the pace in production of cattle during the past ten years. Total cash receipts for the first nine months of 1959 from marketings of livestock and livestock products were $173,964,000 compared with the $150,142,000 realized from the same source in 1958. From Jan. 1, 1959, to Jan. 1, 1958 Mississippi registered a gain of 149 per cent in beef cattle production. We have unstripped Louisiana's 72 percent Florida's 75 per cent, Texas' 17 per cent, Tennessee's 72 per cent, Oklahoma's 79 per cent, Georgia's 140 per cent, Alabama's 147 per cent and Arkansas' 140 per cent.

Mississippi Bell Telephone Co. has announced that Southern Bell will be expanding its service in the state to include long distance service to all areas.

Linda then... and Linda now

Six-year-old Linda, daughter of Columbus, Ohio, has been crippled from birth. She suffered from a birth defect, a disorder which seriously affects one out of every 16 babies born in the United States.

When Linda was old enough to walk, she could get around only with the aid of steel braces on her legs. That meant wearing heavy, ankle-high shoes which were not very pretty for a little girl who was otherwise developing into a real beauty.

Children with significant birth defects, known medically as congenital malformations, often face a lifetime of crippling. But there was hope in Linda's case. In her hometown, at the Columbus Children's Hospital, a new center especially designed to treat birth defects was set up with the support of New March of Dimes funds. It is probably the world's first birth defects treatment and study center. Linda began a series of operations to correct her muscles, the stiffening in her legs. Today she no longer needs the braces and can even ride a tricycle. Through the efforts of the doctors at the Columbus Children's Hospital, Linda's life has been transformed. She is now a beautiful, healthy girl.

The New March of Dimes campaign in January, 1960, aimed at three major crippling diseases: including arthritis, and polio in addition to birth defects. It is estimated that one out of every four American families is affected by these disorders. Linda's progress toward a healthy, normal life symbolizes the hope held out by the New March of Dimes for millions of sufferers from crippling diseases.

In the spirit of Christmas, we send our greetings and early good wishes to our many friends.

USE CAUTION WHEN BURNING TRASH

Three week two buildings burned in Rankin County as a result of careless trash burning. Rankin County Forestry Commission is probably the most important cause of forest fires in Mississippi. Last year, out of 3,278 wild woods fires, 3,279 were caused by some form of carelessness on the part of people burning trash. This figure includes only wild fires burning uncontrolled until suppressed by Mississippi Forestry Commission or cooperative fire crews. To obtain a real picture we must consider fires of the legal forest and field fires which occur since they, in many cases, also do damage to timber and nearly always pose a threat to adjacent timber lands. Some 6,836 legal field fires were checked by Commission crews during the same year and many thousands more kept under observation by townsmen and aerial workers until they were out.

Knowledge of how to control fires being used is extremely important in preventing these careless fires. The Mississippi Forestry Commission recommends that all persons using fire memorize and observe the following

- precautions:
1. WHEN BURNING TRASH:
 1. Know fire laws!
 2. Know how to contact Mississippi Forestry Commission Tower or fire crew!
 3. Burn in covered container!
 4. Keep burning container away from buildings, brush, and woods!
 5. Clear area to bare soil, at least five feet around container!
 6. Burn when wind is low!
 7. Check fire frequently!
 - II. WHEN USING WARMING FIRES
 1. Know fire laws!
 2. Know how to contact fire tower or crew!
 3. Build fire in open, 10 feet cleared area!
 4. Keep fire small.
 5. Stay with fire!
 6. Cover fire with dirt!
 7. Be sure fire is dead out, before leaving!
 - III. WHEN SMOKING
 1. Know fire laws!
 2. Know how to contact fire tower or crew!
 3. Use ash trays!
 4. Crush out cigarettes, cigars, or pipe heels in dirt!
 5. Break matches!
 6. Be sure matches and tobacco are dead out!

STUDENTS LEARNING ABOUT HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI

Through the medium of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce a number of high school students from scattered sections of Mississippi are learning about Hancock County.

According to Mrs. Mabel Green, Secretary-Manager of the Chamber of Commerce, requests come in almost daily from such places as Jackson, Natchez, Pontotoc, Pascagoula, Vaughn, Biloxi and other sections of the State.

One student from the State of Texas stated that as a term theme he had chosen the State of Miss. for a subject and that all available literature about Hancock County would be useful.

Other requests come into Mrs. Green's office. Recently an Air Force officer stationed in Alabama requested as much information as possible about the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre; all information was immediately sent him. Church services are also on the list of subjects about which prospective visitors inquire.

The W. S. C. S. afternoon Circle of the Main Street Methodist Church met December 15 at the home of Mrs. T. T. Robin with Mrs. Alice Buckley presiding.

Christmas decorations are shining once again in Waveland. Since it has been the custom of this column to describe the many creative and beautiful outdoor decorations of this Yuletide season we shall do our best to cover the Christmas scene in next week's column. We are asking our readers to let us know if there is a particularly outstanding display that deserves mention. Sometimes it is difficult to see every outdoor arrangement. If there is one that you would like to see given credit in this column, won't you let us hear from you? Just call the office of the Hancock County Eagle and we'll oblige with the true Christmas spirit.

This column would like to ex-

HE TAUGHT THE WORLD TO LOVE

For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son.

How meaningfully are these words today, nearly two thousand years after the humble beginning of that One Great Life at Bethlehem. How holy and purposeful was this life upon earth that it comes to us again and again in the spirit of Christmas to remind that the real joy and the real goodness of life lie not in riches and gold, or self attainment, but in thoughtful and unselfish service and love.

For He so loved the world that He taught the world to love. Through one, great and wonderful life upon earth. He set down for all mankind and for all time the supreme example of the good life. In His every deed and action He portrayed the qualities of love and faith and kindness.

These qualities—and more—are all a part of Christmas. But, by His example, they are qualities that should abound in our lives throughout the years.

In thankfulness to God, for all His goodness and love, we should keep the Christmas in its true and joyful meaning, the spiritual occasion of the birth of Christ. And if we can keep the spirit of Christ within our hearts throughout the year.

TWO MILLION TREES
DISTRIBUTED DAILY

Mississippi Forestry Commission nurseries are lifting and shipping forest tree seedlings at the rate of two million trees per day. Each bundle is tagged, on these tags are the number and species of the trees and instructions for hand planting. In order for seedlings to survive and grow, they must be properly handled from the time they are lifted until they have been properly planted. Seedlings can be kept in excellent condition for a month or more if handled and stored properly. Storage of the bundles in a cool, shady place sheltered from the wind is recommended.

The volume of Christmas cards sent in America will reach this year over two-and-a-half billion, or an average of 14 or 15 for every person in the country.

To meet the demand, the Post Office has hired an extra quarter million workers, the soldiers will pay a quarter billion dollars for the cards, and the postal service will collect about 80 million dollars in postage.

This staggering Christmas card trade has really become big business and is firmly rooted in the American Christmas scheme. Card sending, however, is a recent innovation when compared with all the other traditions of the Yuletide.

First in England

As it is known today, the Christmas card first made its appearance in the 1840's in England. Authorities differ on which of several persons designed the earliest card.

One claimant is a vicar of Newcastle, the Rev. Edward Bradley, who is reported to have sent lithographed holiday greetings to his friends in 1844.

Another claimant is William Egley, whose card was produced in 1842 or 1849, according to the way one reads the date. Another candidate is John C. Horsely.

Across the Sea

Regardless of who sent the first Christmas cards were on sale in London shops by the end of the 1850's and became popular in the next decade. In 1862, a British company paid $38,000 for original paintings to reproduce on cards. The custom meanwhile has spread to America, where it is growing steadily in popularity.

Some of the Victorian cards would now bring laughs. One wished its receiver "A Most Commemorative Xmas & an Utterly Utter New Year."

Today, selecting and addressing Christmas cards has become an annual ritual in American homes. Numerous businesses also mail messages to their customers. And one politician is reported to have sent no less than 40,000 Christmas cards last year.

The problem of what to do with cards when the season is over has never been completely solved. Some hospital patients make new ones from the old and sell them to raise funds. But the supply of used cards appears far greater than the demand.

A CHRISTMAS RESTITUTION
 BY D.L. ALEXANDER

MARY WENDELL stood at her bedroom window scratching at the frost on the glass. It was bitterly cold outside, with a hard wind blowing. Deep snow covered the ground and the birds who had neglected to return to the warmer south huddled in such shelter as could be found.

Mary's face wore a look of sorrow and dejection, and a sob rose once in a while to relieve the tension that otherwise threatened to engulf her.

She had tried to save a little money for Christmas, but after paying her bills she hadn't a cent left. Christmas hadn't mattered much because Donnie had been too young to know about such things. This year he had heard people talk about Santa Claus and had asked questions.

It was the day before Christmas, a time of cheer and good will. But there was no cheer in her heart. Life had been trying for her since she had left Concord and cut herself off from her friends of former days. Sickness and the loss of one job after another had kept her on the edge of destitution.

"May I come in," he inquired. "Mommie, will Santa bring me something?" Donnie had asked when she had put him to bed the night before.

"I don't know, darling," she had answered, knowing she couldn't buy him even a stick of candy.

She raised her head and looked at the crib where he was sleeping. He was well covered and warm. She left the window and went into the sitting room where a cheery fire dispelled most of the cold. She went to the window and pulled the shade down as if, unconsciously, she could dispose of the black mood that assailed her.

In the center of the room she fell to her knees. "Oh, God," she prayed in anguish, "please lift my burden from me. I know I did wrong, but I know You have forgiven me by allowing me to keep my little boy. Please, God, provide me with the means of making this a happy time for him, in recognition of Your Son's sacrifices for us. Amen."

Visitor
 A knock on the door brought her to her feet. She glanced that way but didn't cross the room until it was repeated. Then she opened the door to confront a tall, blond man in army uniform who stood in the dimly lit hallway. She recognized him instantly.

"Why, Donald Bruce," she cried hoarsely. "May I come in?" he inquired. She was too startled to answer, so he laughingly brushed her aside and entered.

He took a quick look around the room and noticed the evidences of poverty. "Why did you quit writing?" he inquired.

"There wasn't much to say," she answered weakly. "He went to the doorway of the kitchen and looked inside. Then he crossed the room to the bedroom doorway, saying, 'It seems to me there could have been a lot to say.'"

His eyes took in the crib and the baby in it. He hurried across the room, Mary following him. He looked down and studied the face of the sleeping child for a few minutes, and then turned to Mary with an unspoken inquiry in his eyes.

"That's why I left Concord," he said. "He looked again at the child searchingly, and then said, 'Why don't you tell me?'"

"I don't think you would care," "Good Heavens, woman, do you think I'm heartless? Do you think I'd leave you to face all this alone without my help?"

He held her arms out to her, and she drew into them, the tears coming freely. "A voice came from the doorway. 'Mommie, the Santa came yet?' 'He's here, Mary, come, and let's go to bed, you've earned a new nightgown.'"
